Discover what you can do.

Crew-in-Training Program

Summerhouse Crew-in-Training (CIT) is an opportunity for students to expand their understanding of responsibility, as well as their sense of self, as part of a working team. In this four-week training program, participants will learn lifelong skills like conflict mediation and First Aid/CPR, and grow through real work experience.

Initial CIT training includes a three-day intensive process with students devoting full days to learning and practicing new skills. Then, for the next three weeks, CITs will work side-by-side with Crew and interact with Summerhouse Kids. CITs' schedules will be based on their availability (see application).

Skills training includes:

- Conflict Mediation training
- Social Innovation training
- First Aid /CPR /AED training & certification
- Safety Protocols training
- Work and Protocols training specific to Summerhouse
